

The FIM CEV Repsol resumes competition with all classes at MotorLand Aragon

The third round of the Championship will have in Moto2 the only female rider of the competition, the rider from Murcia Ana Carrasco.

Download video

Copyright free

LINK TO YOUTUBE

MP4 FILE | 42 MB

MOV FILE | 288 MB

COMPACTED FOR TV

After the round that only included the Moto3 Junior World Championship at the French circuit of Le Mans, the FIM CEV Repsol resumes the action with its three categories this weekend at the World Championship track of MotorLand Aragon. This will be the third round of the calendar, in which there will be one Moto3 race, two Moto2 races and another two Superbike races. In the intermediate category is where Ana Carrasco, Moto3 World Championship rider up to last year, found the opportunity to start her career in a new class.

For the Moto3 Junior World Championship this will be the fourth race of the year. This class is led by Marcos Ramirez with an advantage of 6 points. In Moto2 and Superbikes, that were absent in France, South Africa's Steven Odendaal and Chilean Maximilian Scheib are the leaders of their respective overall standings.

IMAGE GALLERY

SEE IMAGES